❖ Chair of Board of Trustees Praises Governor's Visit to Roxbury Community College

When Governor Deval Patrick visited RCC earlier this month, he came for a specific purpose. The Governor was at the College to announce $20.7 million in capital funding for new projects at RCC. The Governor said that "The capital investment will provide needed upgrade and renovation to the Academic and Media Arts buildings. It will also provide funding for infrastructure related to Life Sciences and Allied Health programs. I'm here to tell you that I believe in Roxbury Community College." Kathy Taylor, the new Chair of RCC's Board of Trustees, said "I would like to thank the Governor for not only bringing good financial and programming news to RCC, but for his unwavering support of time and resources." The new funding will be invaluable as the College continues to build and to fulfill its educational mission.

❖ Disability Speaker Brings Wealth of Information to the College

James Aprea, a client advocate from the Massachusetts Office on Disability, recently gave a presentation hosted by The Greater Access Committee at RCC. Mr. Aprea's office works with clients from The Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission, The Massachusetts Commission for the Blind, and consumers of the Independent Living Centers in Massachusetts to ensure that they are receiving services in accordance with the Federal Vocational Rehabilitation act. The information that Mr. Aprea provided was well received by faculty, students, and staff.
